

New MCRA Website

After much discussion and work, the Missouri Court Reporters Association launched our new website www.mocra.org the spring of 2011! Through the work of Debbie Tolsoi, website designer, we feel very proud of what is now on the Internet representing the Missouri Court Reporters Association.

There are still two areas that we would like to develop further. We would, first, like to develop the members only section which would include a discussion board where we can all connect any time of day. This would be a place where you can ask questions and discuss topics privately from the public. The second area is to develop a paypal account where people can purchase MCRA merchandise, pay dues, and conference fees.

We are accepting advertising on the site. If you would like to see something placed on our website, have any comments or suggestions, please contact Gail Conaway at gailconaway989@msn.com.
